

Friday, April 04, 2008

Radios / CD players / FM transmitters –

I use one or more FM transmitters to allow any radio in our home to get the music from my CD player [or a radio program on one radio that gets it well], to transmit to other radios in our home, when I am moving about our home doing different projects. There are many other possibilities.

The best and least expensive I have found is the “not obvious & not popular”:

Arkon
SoundFeeder
Model SF150
From www.arkon.com
Phone: 1-800-841-0884
About $20 I believe

This older model works better than newer one.
It works the best over the more popular models of other brands so Prominent in the marketplace today. I do not know why Arkon does not publicize it more, but they are into other products.

I bought several extras while they are still available. They are small – 1” x 4” & about 0.5” thick – use 2 AAA batteries – I use rechargeable ones – and plug into an output on your radio – depends on what kind of radio you have – their web site is good on details.